Salsa's Hottest Pair

The Grammy Awards were sizzling hot for our favorite couple, Latin nominees Machito and Ruben Blades.

Our photographer snapped this endearing portrait of the duo as they strolled in the lobby. Machito was wearing a delightful black tux with matching bag and mink. Ruben sported a dark business suit and tie.

News From Perico

Luis Perico Ortiz is back in the recording studio. According to him, this will be another big production with lush orchestrations. The theme: Las Antillas from a New York point of view. The album is entitled "El Isleno." It's scheduled for an April release.

Late Night News Bits

El famoso Pozo has moved his famous night club, Nosotros, to 109th Street off 1st Avenue. The new place is nicer, larger, with upbeat decor and a real working fireplace downstairs.

Sixta (Negra) and Sonny are still hand-picking members for their small, intimate, private night spot, Impala. The attraction: a pool table, recorded music picked by the public, and intimate conversation with good friends into the wee hours. Impala is at 1st Street and 2nd Avenue.

Corso Picks a Winner

Wednesday nights at the Corso were given a strong shot in the arm with their most popular new band of the year competition. The idea attracted new faces and the Corso got coverage in most of the local media, including the Daily News. Tony Raimone of the Corso said, "We welcome anything that's good for the industry."
